```
import java.util.*;

public class ScientificCalculator {

public static void main(String[] args) {

Scanner sc = new Scanner(System.in);

System.out.println("SCIENTIFIC CALCULATOR");

System.out.println("1. Addition");

System.out.println("2. Subtraction");

System.out.println("3. Multiplication");

System.out.println("4. Division");

System.out.println("5. Sin");

System.out.println("6. Cos");

System.out.println("7. Tan"); System.out.println("8. Log");

System.out.println("9. Square Root");

System.out.print("Enter choice: ");

int ch sc.nextInt();

System.out.print("Enter number: ");

double a sc.nextDouble();

double b, result;

switch (ch) {

case 1: System.out.print("Enter second number: ");

b sc.nextDouble(); resulta b; break;

case 2: System.out.print("Enter second number: ");

b sc.nextDouble(); resultab; break;

case 3: System.out.print("Enter second number: ");

b= sc.nextDouble(); resulta b; break;

case 4: System.out.print("Enter second number: ");

b= sc.nextDouble(); result ab; break;

case 5: result Math.sin(Math.toRadians(a)); break;

case 6: result

Math.cos (Math.toRadians (a)); break;

case 7: result

Math.tan(Math.toRadians(a)); break;

case 8: result
```

```
Math.log10(a); break;

case 9: result

Math.sqrt(a); break;

default: System.out.println("Invalid choice"); return;

}

System.out.println("Result result);

}

}
```